DR. STEINER ON THE EMIGRANT.

Dr. E. A. Steiner, an authority on emigration subjects, appeared Monday evening before the patrons of the Barton Lecture association in his lecture, "On the Trail of the Emigrant," and delighted his audience. Dr. Steiner may not be termed an orator but he held the close attention of every person present from start to finish. Interwoven throughout the entire lecture was a strain of humor that kept the audience in good spirits. His close study of the Slavonic peoples and their predominant characteristics and the change wrought upon them when thrown into contact with our nation's thoughts, actions and environments, is a fascinating story. His lecture was a study that pretty thoroughly convinces one that emigration to this country of the Slav, and as well as the other and what are usually termed more desirable classes of emigrants, were needed in this country for its development. He closed with a strong plea for better citizenship. The next and last number of the course is the popular Eastern Concert, scheduled for March 9.

Mrs. Sarah Gould.

Mrs. Sarah Gould, who lived with her half-sister, Mrs. C. S. Clogston on Church street, died yesterday afternoon of old age and the results of a partial shock. Late last fall Mrs. Gould was taken sick and her eyesight failed and since then she has been tenderly cared for by Mrs. Clogston. For the past three weeks she had been unable to speak and the end came as a relief to a suffering body which had ever been ready to sacrifice for the comfort of others, as a host of neighbors and friends can testify. Mrs. Gould was 72 years and nine months old and had lived here about 30 years, coming from Sutton with Mr. Gould where they were married in 1865. Mr. Gould died several years ago. She was a faithful member of the Congregational church in Barton, and for years while her health permitted one who was always doing what she could for her church, her neighbor and her Master. She leaves besides Mrs. Clogston, a brother, George Rice of Sheffield, and a half-brother, Frank Rice of Holyoke, Mass. The funeral services will be held from the house Thursday afternoon at 1 o'clock. Rev. W. A. Warner officiating and the interment will be in the Welcome O. Brown cemetery where Mr. Gould was buried.

FARMERS' WEEK

Lectures before Farmers at University of Vermont. Points of Interest to the Farmers of the State.

The past week was "farmers' week" at the university of Vermont, Burlington, and the program was full of interesting addresses, one by E. S. Brigham of St. Albans on "Drainage of Farm Land," one by E. F. Lutzman, plant pathologist, on "Bordeaux and Other Sprays in the Field," a third by Prof. J. L. Hills of the university on "Soil Moisture," and a fourth by Prof. G. P. Burns of the university on "The Combat with Weeds."

Mr. Brigham's lecture on drainage of farm lands was in part as follows: "The first essential in the layout of a drainage system is a good outlet. An open ditch or a large tile is to be preferred. There are three systems in vogue; the natural system, that is to say laying tile into natural depressions which are particularly wet and troublesome; the gridiron system, which contemplates the drainage of the entire field to the end that its moisture and textural conditions may be made as uniform as practicable; and the single line system which consists of laying tile lines in the direction of the greatest slope, each having a separate outlet into an open ditch. On many lands the natural slope is sufficient to obviate the necessity of a survey. The common spirit level may quite commonly be used to determine the slope. Drains are placed all the way from 25 to 150

The banquet was served by the ladies of the Congregational church of that place. J. M. Carpenter of St. Johnsbury, president of the state association, gave some very good advice to the carriers about being courteous to their patrons, especially in answering any questions about the service, and to be faithful in performing all duties as carriers. J. C. Carpenter, state delegate to the National R. L. C. A. meeting held at Little Rock, Ark., Sept. 20 to 23, 1910, gave a very interesting report of that meeting.

F. A. Lemos, a patron of Mr. Carpenter's route was present and made some remarks showing that the farmers prize the rural service, which gives them daily mail, whereas without K. F. D., they would not average to get mail oftener than twice a week.

The choice of the next place of meeting was left with the executive committee.

A Close Game of Basket Ball.

The Basket Ball season was opened by a game in Seaver's hall Friday evening between the Hardwick Independents and the local five.

It certainly was a heart breaker to watch. With a minute and a half to play Barton was one point behind but not a whit discouraged and though it seemed to the excited crowd that the whistle must blow before an opportunity would be offered to tie or win, Barrows finally had an opportunity to throw a foul, making the score even and continuing play after the third period, when Hardwick by a pretty pass and throw won the game by a score of 19-17. The Barton team is certainly to be congratulated on the form shown in the initial contest, Barrows making one of the most sensational one-hand baskets ever seen in the hall. The Hardwick boys were a clean lot whom we shall be pleased to welcome in Barton again and their experience and somewhat superior team work enabled them to win.

The next game to be played here will be with Dean Academy. Final arrangements have not been made. Watch for posters.

Mr. Elliott had been in failing health for the last six years but was around about his duties until about three months ago when his health failed rapidly and the end came very peacefully. During all his suffering he was very patient. He was a kind hearted, hard working man, willing to help all that were in need. Mr. Elliott was born in Durham, P. Q., Dec. 26, 1842, and was the youngest son of George and Mary Elliott. In 1874 he married Jennie Bettie of the same town. They moved to Barton 32 years ago, where he spent the rest of his days.
